PROMINENT NEW YORK SOCIALITE MISSING

ATTEMPTS TO DIE IN ROOM OF EX-FIANCE

Jacksonville Girl Gives Dixonite Anxious Hour

Miss Rachel Douglas, 20, residing at 304 South Main street, Jacksonville, Ill., attempted suicide last evening about 5:30 at a rooming house on First street, David Fortado, 24, employed by one of the contracting firms at the Dixon state hospital, and at one time engaged to Miss Douglas, discovered her when he went to his rooming house last evening at the close of his day's work, and found a suicide note on the bed beside her.

Miss Douglas was rushed to the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital where the poison was pumped from her stomach and according to reports she will be able to leave for her home today. Tablets which she swallowed were of insufficient strength to cause her death, it was reported.

The young woman came to Dixon from Chicago yesterday afternoon and located the rooming house of her former sweetheart, where she proceeded to occupy his room. In a statement to officers last evening Fortado is said to have said that late last week he received a letter from Miss Douglas in which she announced her intention of coming to Dixon to visit him. He immediately replied telling her not to come, but to remain at her Jacksonville home, he said.

His first knowledge of her presence in Dixon was when he walked into his room at a First street rooming house last evening and found her stretched out across his bed, moaning as if in pain. Beside her lay a note in which she announced her intention of taking her life. She had not lost consciousness and related to Fortado that she had swallowed seven tablets of a strong heart stimulant with suicidal intent. He promptly summoned a physician and accompanied her to the hospital where he remained until it was announced that she was out of danger.

"She sure put me on the spot," Fortado is said to have told officers at the hospital last evening. "I did not suspect that she was here and had told her not to come. She has tried this same thing before, and I think that this is the third time that it hasn't worked and I am not so sure, but what there is a lot of bluff connected to this attempt."

Fortado then told the officers that he and Miss Douglas were at one time engaged but that she had broken off the engagement. Fortado stated that he lived on rural route 3 out of Jacksonville and had come to Dixon and obtained employment with a Chicago contracting firm at the state hospital.

"I'll put her on a bus tomorrow and send her back home," he told the officers as he again congratulated himself upon reaching his room in time to be of service in securing medical assistance before she had succeeded in ending her life.

Trio of Reasons

Chicago, June 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Marek, 39, told Judge Joseph B. David she had three reasons for divorcing her husband, John. They were:

1. He killed her two pet canaries.
2. He strangled her chow dog because the animal brought her slippers before his.
3. He smashed the radio because she wanted to listen to a barn dance program.

Te divorce was granted.

Career Ended

SIR ROBERT L. BORDEN

World War Prime Minister of Canada, who died at the stately colonial home in Ottawa this morning at the age of 82. The "elder statesman" took a sudden turn for the worse late yesterday when signs of "acute cardiac failure" developed. Death came at 5:30 A. M.

FATHER OF POLO PASTOR IS DEAD FROM INJURIES

John C. Bloomquist Passed Away Last Night at Hospital

John C. Bloomquist, 78, of East Chicago, Ind., father of the Rev. Sidney Bloomquist, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Polo, passed away at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital last evening at 7:55 o'clock. The father and son were seriously injured Monday afternoon about 3:30 when the car driven by the Rev. Bloomquist was struck by north-bound Illinois Central freight train No. 192 at Henry's crossing, two miles south of Polo. They were en route to the Peek orphanage when the accident occurred.

Both men were thrown from the car by the force of the impact, the machine being rolled between the side of the train and the embankment for some distance before the train was stopped. They were then placed in the caboose by members of the train crew and taken to Polo, where both received first aid, then being brought to the Dixon hospital.

The elder Bloomquist sustained a minor skull fracture, dislocated left shoulder, and fractured pelvis, his condition being considered critical from the time of his admission to the hospital. Death ended his suffering at a few minutes before 8 o'clock last evening.

Inquest Is Held

Dr. Kenyon B. Senger, coroner, ordered the removal of the body to the Woods funeral home and this morning at 11:15 opened an inquest. Members of the crew of the train were present as follows: J. L. Dewey, brakeman; G. K. Fishburn, engineer, and E. E. Horner, fireman, all being residents of Freeport. Dr. L. M. Griffin of Polo, who rendered first aid to the injured men, also testified.

The testimony of the train crew indicated that the bumper of the

NEGRO UNION ORGANIZER IS DRIVEN AWAY

Steel Violence Has Attention of Congressmen Now

Mourne, Mich., June 10.—(AP)—Steel workers and newly-deputized special policemen drove a Negro organizer for the Committee for Industrial Organization out of the city shortly before noon today as the zero hour neared for the re-opening of the strike-closed Newton Steel Co. plant.

Fifteen or 20 men seized the organizer, Leonidas McDonald, on Monroe's principal street as he attempted to flee in his automobile.

They made him leave the motorcar, beat him and forced him to walk a mile out of the city, toward Toledo. There, they said, an automobile containing four or five men picked him up and headed westward.

One report said he was making an organizational speech when the trouble began. Another report was that he was seized as he emerged from a block before he managed to make his way to his automobile, from which he again was removed.

MOLINE FEELS EFFECTS

Moline, Ill., June 10.—(AP)—The effect of the CIO strike against the Republic Steel corporation extended to Moline today when the Sylvan plant of the company here failed to open as scheduled after being closed for two weeks for improvements.

Only a few men reported for work this morning and no attempt was made to reopen the factory. Superintendent P. C. Rasmussen said that no decision was made as to the date when work would be resumed. There was no picketing.

At least 17 persons were injured at the rain-swept gates of a strike-bound Republic Steel corporation plant at Youngstown, O., in the first major renewal of violence in the bloody strike that has cost eight lives and thrown 73,000 steel workers into idleness in the last two weeks.

In Washington, where the labor situation has been occupying attention of Congress, Chairman Connery (D-Mass.) of the House labor committee, supported demands of labor and employers that the Black-Connery wage and hour bill cover small as well as large industries.

Downpours Swell Streams Near St. Louis; Two Drown

St. Louis, June 10.—(AP)—Searchers hunted today for the bodies of two persons, drowned yesterday as prolonged downpours turned normally quiescent streams into raging torrents.

Sherman Oesch, 19, was thrown from a raft into the angry waters of Coldwater creek and swept downstream.

David Fischesser, 54, was drowned when he fell into a swollen stream from a bridge while attempting to dislodge debris lodged against it.

Flooded basements, clogged sewers and inundated streets and fields remained as evidence of the heaviest rainfall here in two years.

New Street Lights Will Be Placed in Service Next Saturday Evening

City Officials Will Have Part in Opening Ceremonies

Dixonites will be treated to the spectacle of the new ornamental street lighting in the business district Saturday night, when Mayor William Slothower and members of the city council officiate at ceremonies marking the acceptance of the new system, which was turned on for a brief time last night as final tests were completed.

In order that comparison may be made between the old and new ornamental system, a demonstration of the two systems will be held. The old system will be turned on promptly at 7:50 P. M. Saturday night and will continue in operation until 8:30 P. M., when it will be turned off and the new system will officially be placed in operation.

Celebrating the inauguration of the new street lighting Dixon merchants will hold open house that night. The Dixon band will parade over the routing of streets lighted by the new system.

To Remove Old Poles

The new system, as it is placed in operation, will be complete with the exception of the section of the eight lights on the west side of Ottawa Avenue from Second street to River street. These lights will be connected to the system as soon as the Illinois Northern Utilities company has completed the work of consolidating its general distribution system on the new street light poles. Workmen will start Monday to remove the old street lighting poles which will leave the new lighting standards the only pole structures on the streets lighted by the new system. The new system extends along First street from Crawford avenue to Madison avenue; along Ottawa Avenue from Second street to River street; along Galena Avenue from Third street to River street; along Hennepin Avenue from Second street to River street; along Second street from Galena Avenue to Hennepin Avenue, and along Peoria Avenue from Second street to River street.

132 New Standards

The complete system includes 132 standards with four standards on each side of the street in each block. Each fixture or luminaire contains a lamp of 4000 lumens. Every other luminaire is to be in service from dusk until dawn every night, and the alternate fixtures are to be in service from dusk until midnight every night.

The new standards consist of fluted steel poles and curving steel brackets from which are suspended the luminaires. The poles, brackets and luminaires are finished in olive green. The luminaires are of the latest type, consisting of a polished aluminum reflector and a rippled glass globe. The entire fixture is a great improvement over the old lighting fixture, having been designed to obtain maximum efficiency by distributing the light directly upon the streets and sidewalks.

Death Takes Mrs. Miller Schrader

Mrs. Miller Schrader passed away late yesterday afternoon at her home west of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway, aged 92 years, five months and nine days. She was born in Greencastle, Pa., Dec. 31, 1844 and had been a resident of this vicinity for years. Funeral services will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. L. E. Connor, pastor of the Church of God, officiating and interment will be in the Rock Falls cemetery. The obituary will be published later.

WARNING FAILS TO STOP AMELIA FLYING AFRICA

Airwoman Takes Off in Face of News About Tornadoes

Paris, June 10.—(AP)—The Air Ministry announced that Amelia Earhart, flying around the world, landed at Gao, French West Africa, at 2:50 today, Greenwich time (8:50 A. M. C. S. T.), after a hop from Dakar, Senegal.

Dakar, French Senegal, June 10.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart flew eastward across Africa's wild expanse today despite warnings that tornadoes doled the path of her "Just for fun" round-the-world flight.

After a smooth take-off at 6:55 A. M. Greenwich Mean Time (12:55 A. M. C. S. T.), from Ouaka airport, the airwoman headed for Gao, 1,140 miles east and north of here on the Niger river, having altered somewhat her previously set course on account of unfavorable weather.

She had planned to fly her silver, twin-engine monoplane to Naimy, French Niger colony, 250 miles southeast of Gao and due east of Dakar.

A rising before dawn, Miss Earhart hurried to the airfield where she received reports of barometric depressions and tornadoes in the Sudanese region in the heart of Africa over which she had charted her course.

So she decided to swing slightly to the north to Gao but maintained the general direction of her itinerary through the center of the continent.

Orders Obeyed

Jackson, Miss., June 10.—(AP)—J. R. Sadler of Nashville, Tenn., one-time commander in Nathan Forrest's famous cavalry corps, came to the reunion of Confederate veterans in the wake of this telegram:

"Meet me at the railway station with 12 pretty girls on horseback and a spirited horse for me to ride to the hotel."

The girls and the horses were there. And the 93-year-old veteran climbed briskly to his saddle and headed an impromptu parade.

KIDNAPING AND MURDER ARE FEARED

Bloody Hatchet and Axe Found on Mrs. Parsons' Estate

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—A blood-stained hatchet and an axe, found on the poultry farm of William H. Parsons, gentleman farmer, were rushed to New York City for examination today as Parsons was reported ready to pay $25,000 ransom for the return of his missing wife, Alice McDonnell Parsons, 38 and prominent socially.

The axe and the hatchet were found by investigators, called to the fashionable north shore Long Island home of the Parsons', related by blood and marriage to a half dozen wealthy New York families.

The demand for the $25,000 ransom was contained in a note left in the Parsons car as it stood outside their white colonial house in Gould Road yesterday.

The note and the discovery of the two weapons left the authorities—department of justice agents, Suffolk county police and detectives from the office of District Attorney L. Barron Hill—confronted with two theories—murder or kidnapping.

Stains Are Blood

Dr. Benjamin Morgan Vance, Assistant Medical Examiner of New York, who made a first examination of the axe and the hatchet under a microscope said the stains on the hatchet were undoubtedly made by blood.

The note bolstered the abduction theory. It was penciled on cheap white ruled paper, enclosed in a cheap white envelope, addressed to Parsons, and contained the sinister suggestion that police activity might mean death for Mrs. Parsons.

The ransom note was found last night shortly after Parsons, returning from a trip to New York City and finding his wife missing, notified the state police barracks at Bay Shore, on the south side of the island.

Reported Note

A reliable source said it read: "I have your wife. Bring $25,000 to the Jamaica Bus Terminal within the next 24 hours and my men will meet you and call you by name. Do not bring any cops. If you do Alice will never speak to you again."

Mrs. Parsons, the former Alice W. McDonnell, was said to be worth about $200,000, of which she recently inherited $50,000. Her husband, too, was said to be well-to-do. He was graduated from Yale in 1910.

The story of Mrs. Parsons' disappearance came from Mrs. Anna Kupryonova, described by the police as a high-born Russian woman, who had worked for the Parsons for about four years.

Couple Called

Mrs. Kupryonova, Assistant District Attorney Joseph S. Arata of Suffolk county reported, said a middle-aged couple—apparent strangers—called for Mrs. Parsons yesterday morning at the Parsons' home, "Long Meadow Farm," and that the matron drove off with them.

The mystery deepened early this afternoon when Mrs. Leona Newton, a former postmistress of Stony Brook, told the police she had seen Mrs. Parsons driving through the village about 1:30 P. M. yesterday, about two and a half hours after the time fixed for her departure by Mrs. Kupryonova.

Mrs. Newton was brought to the Parsons home and looked at the Parsons car to see if it was the one she had seen. She said it was not the car. Mrs. Parsons, she said, was accompanied by another person, but the police did not disclose whether it was a man or woman.

Mrs. Kupryonova told Arata Mrs. Parton told her: "I'm going over to the Sammis place."

This was described by Arata as an estate near Huntington, about 15 miles away, in which Mrs. Parsons had an interest.

Bert Walker, investigator from the district attorney's office, found the ransom note stuck under the front seat of Parsons' car.

The Parsons have no children. Their farm is about two miles from the Stony Brook railroad station.

TRAFFIC FATALITY
Taylorville, Ill., AP)—Mrs. James Hixon, 66, was killed by an automobile as she crossed the street in front of her home.

Washington — Senator Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia came to the White House the other day to denounce Shenandoah Homesteads, a Resettlement project near his home which he claims is "extravagant" and a "sinful waste."

On the other hand, the Agriculture Department, which now controls Resettlement, says money must be spent in order to lift the level of farm wages and farm income. Therefore it pays definitely higher wages at Shenandoah Homesteads than in the surrounding area.

The President, however, did not go into all this. He listened to Byrd for a moment, then—knowing that the senator from Virginia was one of the biggest apple growers in the entire eastern United States—he said:

"Harry, how much do you pay your apple pickers?"

"I pay them the going wage," replied Byrd.

"Yes, but how much is the going wage?" insisted Roosevelt.

Byrd hesitated. Finally he said: "Nine cents an hour."

The President threw back his head, laughed heartily and said: "There you are, Harry, that explains everything."

Professor Saxon

Prof. Glenn Saxon of Yale, former chief of the famous Republican "Brain Trust," is being used as window-dressing for a company whose registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission has come in for a lot of criticism.

The company is "Listed Securities, Inc.," of which Saxon is a director, and the SEC has been seriously considering issuing a stop order against it.

At Yale, Professor Saxon always has been fanatically opposed to any dabbling in outside activities by members of the faculty, and was long those who frowned upon the revelation that Professor Irving Fisher of Yale was innocently involved in "Automatic Signal," a company which proved to be no boon to investors.

Diplomatic Snarl

Several U. S. ambassadors are now undergoing the deep humiliation of being unable to take their new jobs because the men now holding them will not get out.

This is the present predicament of Joe Davies, husband of the breakfast table, Marjorie Post Hutton. Technically Joe is still Ambassador to Russia. But he has been selected confidentially as Ambassador to Germany as soon as the incumbent, William E. Dodd, resigns.

Ambassador Dodd, however, does not seem inclined to leave Berlin. The state department long has wanted him out, but he seems to take a contrary delight in thwarting it.

Meanwhile Joe Davies and his wife have to continue visiting abroad or else going back to Moscow.

Note: Interesting fact is that Davies has done a good job as ambassador to Moscow. He has worked hard, studied the country, and the Russians are most enthusiastic about him. They hope he will stay.

Ambassador Gibson

Also in an embarrassing predicament is Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Brazil. He was selected confidentially as U. S. ambassador to Belgium. But the present ambassador to Belgium, Dave Hennen Morris, likes his job, doesn't intend to resign.

So Gibson has been out on a limb, vacationing at the taxpayers' expense. Meanwhile Jefferson Caffery, ambassador to Cuba, has been appointed to Brazil, but can't take the post because Gibson won't officially vacate.

And at the same time Butler Wright, minister to Czechoslovakia, has been appointed to take Caffery's post, as ambassador to Cuba. But he cannot step in because Caffery can't be appointed to Brazil.

Meanwhile none of these men is working at his post; all are "on leave."

Free Holidays

Gibson's absence from Brazil illustrates the state department's pleasant way of vacationing its ambassadors at government expense.

Gibson left Rio de Janeiro around elections last year in order to be on hand when the new ambassadorial pie was being passed. He persuaded the state department to bring him home "for consultation," thus paid his expenses paid by the taxpayer.

As soon as he got home he turned around and went back to greet Roosevelt on his trip to Buenos Aires. Again the taxpayer paid the bill.

After staying in Rio for about two weeks, he came back the second

GERMAN FREIGHT DEPOT RAZED BY MYSTERY BLAZE360 Tons of Goods and 45 Empty Cars Are Destroyed

Halle, Germany, June 10.—(AP)—

A fiercely burning fire, fed by inflammable acids, killed at least five persons and injured four others

today in freight depot.

Nine other employees of the yards still are missing.

The mysterious blaze, railway administration officials said, destroyed 120 freight cars, loaded with 360 tons of goods, and 45

empty cars.

Only the heroism of railway workers prevented a worse disaster.

Realizing that some of the endangered cars were filled with tanks of liquid air that would have caused terrific explosions had the fire reached them, they shoved the cars out of danger with the flames

at their backs.

Damage Is Heavy

The flames, swiftly spread by a series of explosions that showered loading platforms with blazing benzene and acids, were fought by the massed departments of this city, 20 surrounding villages, local factories, Reich labor service detachments, brown-shirted storm troopers and black-shirted "SS" men.

The freight depot and buildings, covering an area of 20,000 square yards, were for the most part completely burned.

The damage was estimated at many millions of marks.

The fire spread with amazing rapidity through the trans-shipment station of the German federal railways. The depot was devoted exclusively to transferring goods from one freight car to another.

Officials said they were at a loss to account for the origin of the holocaust.

HIS COURT FIGHT
HAS JUST BEGUNFaces Maximum Penalty
of $20,000 in Fines,
10 Years in Prison

Chicago, June 10.—(AP)—William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission, who faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, and $20,000 in fines for income tax evasion, said today "the fight has just started."

"I'm not so young * * * but the old fighting spirit has not been broken," Malone said in announcing he will carry his appeal to the higher courts.

A jury in Federal Judge William H. Holly's court convicted Malone Tuesday on charges of evading $59,000 of income taxes on $330,000 of concealed income in 1929 and 1930. Sentence was stayed until June 26 when a hearing will be held on a motion for a new trial.

Discussed Verdict

In discussing the verdict at his

Park Ridge home, Malone charged the government broke faith with him in 1933, when he was indicted by a federal grand jury while in Germany.

"The government promised my attorney when this started that no criminal action would be taken against me until I had opportunity of a hearing before the United States board of appeals," Malone declared. "So I left for Germany in 1933, feeling free to do so, with a view of collecting a debt of $80,000 from the Polka brothers. I came back in a short time to keep the Park Ridge bank open. I was again promised no action would be taken until I had a hearing, and I felt free to go to Germany again. A few weeks later I read in a Paris paper of my indictment."

GOLD.

It is not necessary to concur in the conclusions of the author of a pamphlet mailed to newspapers by Clinch & Co., New York, to accept some statements of facts, the last of which follow:

"It must be apparent to any one, if the very rumor of a lowering of the import price of gold paid by the United States treasury has resulted in

"1. A break in security prices in New York, London, Johannesburg, and Toronto

"2. A dumping of wheat, cotton, rubber, tin, and zinc in the world markets, that perhaps an increase in the price of gold might have the opposite effect. At any rate, any conclusions that gold is passing as a monetary base; that gold is ever to be replaced successfully by any managed or commodity currency, is easily proved to be unsound by the very fact that even a rumor that the price of imported gold may be reduced brings about a chaotic condition that is world wide."

The author of the pamphlet wants the value of the dollar reduced to 50 percent of its pre-Roosevelt value, which is a matter of monetary policy, and he dwells upon the manner in which gold continues to control the money situation.

We legislated the word gold out of our bonds, we took everybody's gold away from him, we buried the gold in the ground, and some of the foremost New Deal economists think it possible to discard gold as an influence upon the purchasing power of our money.

Some think we should forget the gold in the hole in the ground in Kentucky like England is pretending to forget the Duke of Windsor, but we are permitted to forget it just about the same way. It continues to bob up as a subject to talk about.

How quickly we forget. The leering at Hoover over his farm board and its experience in taking wheat and cotton off the market hardly had died away when our economists began to attempt to make us forget the existence of gold as a standard of value.

The marketeers never forgot the existence of the wheat and cotton bought and stored by the farm board and until it was wiped out as a surplus by the drought, it continued to be a weight on the market.

No more than that have the practical men of the world ignored the existence of our gold in a hole in Kentucky. We still are on a gold standard of measurement, even though we are not on a gold standard of redemption of our pledged obligations.

As the pamphleteer says, if a rumor that the president was going to lower the import price of gold resulted in a break in world prices in security markets, and in dumping wheat, cotton, rubber, and zinc, certainly it doesn't take much to move the scales that weigh the gold.

POLITICS IS A GREAT GAME

Did the treasury officials seek a congressional investigation when they sought to round up Al Capone on charge of violation of income tax laws? Did they seek a congressional investigation to get W. H. Malone within the jurisdiction of the United States courts to answer charges of violation of income tax laws?

They did not. The treasury department has a group of high grade investigators who usually get their man. These investigators know where the law is weak. They can give any congressional committee full information on the subject, and treasury lawyers are skilful in drawing bills for passage, if sought.

With all the information of these investigators at hand, the congress ought to be able to enact suitable legislation. Especially should it be as able as it will be after a lot of hippodrome such as seems to be in the offing.

Avenues are open between the treasury department and the committee on finance in the senate and the committee on ways and means of the house of representatives. Most of our legislation by which this country is governed has been enacted through such processes.

Then, what's all the commotion about—a long descriptive letter from Morgenthau to Roosevelt—a presidential message from Roosevelt to the congress—a bill providing that treasury agents shall be able to conduct a "congressional" investigation, going from place to place?

Paul Mallon, one of the bright Washington correspondents, has his notion of it all:

"It (the treasury) has just about all the power it really needs to get any additional information it really wants, without obtaining further authority from congress."

"What the treasury wants is to have congress give out the names and advertise them far and wide in the customary manner of congressional investigation committees."

"The plain fact is, either the president or the treasury could have made public the names of tax dodgers without fear of criticism. But that method would have provided only a flash in the publicity pan. The sensation would have occupied the public mind for only a few days. But a joint congressional investigation committee can give out a few names a day, summon the worst miscreants and examine them, keep typesetters finding new and bigger headlines daily."

"It will give the nation something to think and talk about other than the supreme court (now adjourned, unpacked), the minimum wage and maximum hours discussion, and other pending herrings, red, dead, or dying."

It seems that a nation that more than anything else needs to get over a case of nerves must be jerked by its ear periodically in order to emphasize that it has met its master."

PROF. J. D. FLINT

A shepherd was asked how many sheep he had in his flock. He replied that he did not know exactly but that he knew if he counted them by twos, by threes, by fours, by fives, or by sixes there was always on left over but if he counted them by sevens there was none left over.

How many sheep were there in the flock—that is, what is the smallest number that will fulfill the requirements?

Centennial Celebrated

On Saturday evening, June 5th 150 people sat down to a splendidly served banquet dinner served by the June Circle of the Ladies Aid of Compton Methodist church, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the church.

Following the impressive candle lighting service in which one candle at each table was lighted to signify the one hundredth birthday of the church, the four course dinner was served. Features of the evening program were the excellent address given by Rev. Howard M. Buxton of the Dixon Methodist church, in which he emphasized the fact that there is in the world today too much blind optimism, an optimism founded on a full knowledge and complete recognition of the facts of life being essential.

Mrs. Paul Fricks sang two lovely numbers, and the Moody Bible Institute Brass Trio played several numbers during the evening. Dr. Ralph M. Pierce, District Superintendent, spoke a few words in greeting to the church.

On Sunday morning, following the Sunday school hour the anniversary service was held in which Dr. Pierce spoke to the congregation on the vital subject, "The Living Church." The children's chorus sang two numbers, and the Moody Bible Institute Trio played several instrumental selections. The service was largely attended with many friends from out of town being in attendance.

In the afternoon at 3 P. M. the very interesting memorial service was held with Mrs. Leslie Miller presiding. The history of the church was read by John Archer, and many reminiscences were given by those who had returned to enjoy the various centennial events. Letters from distant friends were read by Mrs. Emil Bernardin, Mrs. Edward Holdren, and Mrs. Roy Cook presented the past and present of official board members. The oldest member present from the standpoint of unbroken relationship to the church was Mrs. Eva Argraves.

Those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Chaffee of Valparaiso, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. William Geisinger of Storm Lake, Ia., A. Ed Bennett of Tampico, Mrs. Arlin Bradshaw Gletty of Somonauk, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thompson of Champaign, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Forest Merriman of Clinton, Miss Hester Merriman of DeKalb, Miss Louie Knauer, the Misses Frances and Ruth Daugherty, the Misses Elva and Mary Bradshaw, all of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hough of Mt. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bernardin of DeKalb, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Angler of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. William Bushing of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Linn Argraves of Sterling, Mrs. Jennie Welton of Hinckley, Mrs. Hazel Rosenkrans of Paw Paw, Mrs. Edna Cole and son Alben of Waubesa, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bailey of Mendota, Miss Flora Seals of Dixon, Attorney Fremont Kaufman of Dixon, Mrs. Berntha Bennett-Rorick of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Wolford and John Myrtle of Rockford, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartsch of Bellevue, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones of Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gehant of West Brooklyn, Mrs. B. W. Gilmore and children of DeKalb, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merriman of Paw Paw, Rev. and Mrs. Clyde King of Waterman, Rev. Howard Buxton of Dixon, Rev. Robeson of Mendota, and the following former pastor of the Compton M. E. church: Rev. Paul Fricke of Rockford, Rev. I. Hutchinson of Craneville and Rev. R. J. McKelvey of Capron, Ill.

What is now the Compton M. E. church was founded by the organizing of a class in Melugin's Grove at the home of Melugin in the fall of 1837. There were five in the class William Guthrie, John Gilmore and wife, William Lawton and wife, with Mr. Lawton as class leader.

The first preacher was a Methodist circuit riding preacher in about the year 1837, services being held in the Gilmore cabin. After these services a church and Sunday school were organized. Rev. S. R. Beggs was the first regular minister in about 1850, when a church was erected across the road from the present Union church. Later another church was erected which was moved to Compton in 1879 during which time Rev. Beal was the pastor. The next minister of note was Rev. A. W. Hetrich who remained here five years, commencing in 1879 and who seems to have built up the church a great deal.

With the moving of the Melugin's Grove church to Compton the history of the church begins. In 1894 the present parsonage was built. The church building itself was remodeled in 1908 at a cost of less than $6000. At the time of remodeling we find the following people composing the church board J. W. Banks, H. L. Rordham, William Phillips, A. P. Gilmore, J. F. Betz, Mrs. Lulu Chandler, Abraham Bennett, Mrs. Martha Beemer, John S. Richardson. The minister at the time of the dedication was Rev. E. S. Nicholas. A window of which is a dedication to his wife who died before he reached Compton.

The church has had sessions of depression and sessions of prosperity. On 1931 on account of financial conditions it became necessary for the church to join with

Answer to Question No. 1

1. I think they do. People fall in love because of outward appearances and little mannerisms—tones of voice, gestures, dress, and the like. It always has been so and always will be so. No man in his senses ever fell in love with a woman's brains or even her character. However, if he stays in love—that's a different proposition. Unless the woman has a fair amount of brains and solid qualities of character he soon falls out of love and—for that woman—stays out. On the home stretch in the race of love, brains and character win.

We feel that the church at the present time is on a stronger foundation spiritually and financially than it has been for some time. Much credit must be given to the Ladies Aid society for the splendid work it has rendered in the past and is still continuing at the present time.

The Sunday school which plays a very important part in the foundation of the church has had a very important place in the church and community, and much interest is being shown in the work.

Today, one hundred years after it was founded the Compton Methodist church is still progressing under the leadership of Rev. Lloyd Coleman, May God bless the church and the community in another 100 years of glorious history.

The people of Compton are to be congratulated on the successful manner in which the centennial was conducted under the excellent leadership of Rev. Lloyd Coleman, the present minister.

Wedding Is Solemnized

Miss Lillian Ramenofsky, daughter of Mrs. Emma Ramenofsky, of Chicago, former LaSalle resident and a sister of Dr. A. I. Ramenofsky, LaSalle, became the bride of Irwin Kaufman, Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kaufman, of Compton, in a pretty ceremony performed at the Shoreland hotel in Chicago, Sunday at 6:30 P. M. The Rabbi Mann, of Chicago, officiated and the couple was unattended.

The bride was charmingly attired in a beige suit with fox trim and wore accessories of brown. Only members of the immediate family more and more of our young people are getting on to this ancient wisecrack. It is the sheerest tommyrot. Yet millions of young people are being huddled and coddled through our schools and colleges with either the conscious or unconscious assumption held before them that somewhere in the world there is a top of some sort waiting for them. Ninety-nine per cent of them are never going to get farther than getting a fairly well-paid job, marrying a fairly decent young person and rearing two or three fairly decent children and becoming fairly decent, fairly law-abiding citizens. Far better to teach a boy there is a good living but not a pot of gold waiting for him at some mythical rainbow's foot.

ilies were present at the ceremony and dinner which followed. The young people left later for a honeymoon trip to Guatemala and upon their return will reside in Chicago.

The bride, a graduate of LaSalle-Peru township high school and junior college also attended the University of Illinois and later graduated from the Michael Reese School of Nursing where she specialized in bacteriology. She has been employed in the offices of prominent Chicago physicians for some time. The bridegroom holds an executive position with Spiegel-May-Stern and company, Chicago.

Guests at the wedding besides the couple's parents were Dr. and Mrs. A. I. Ramenofsky, LaSalle, Mrs. Max Lantini, Los Angeles, Cal., mother of Mrs. Ramenofsky who is a guest at their home, Miss Henrietta Levine, LaSalle, and her fiancé, Attorney F. PLANS FOR PLOW CENTENNIAL ARE ASSUMING FORM

Great Interest Being Shown in Celebration June 25th

Girl Scouts of Dixon, under the supervision of Miss Marie Kelly, local director, were preparing today to take an active part in contributing to the enjoyment of the thousandth anniversary of the plow centennial at Grand Detour on June 25.

The Girl Scouts will have charge of a nursery and play-ground where mothers may leave their small children, thus leaving the mothers free to attend the many events on the program. In addition, the scouts will conduct an information booth and will be prepared to answer questions about points of interest, traffic routes and local history.

A site for the nursery was chosen yesterday just north of Beck's store, west of the Black Hawk trail.

Mrs. R. H. Scales was named to head a committee which will direct the transportation of the scouts to and from Grand Detour on the day of the celebration.

Mrs. Harry Warner will be in charge of preparations for the nursery and Mrs. Robert Warner will direct the scout at the information booth.

Committee Meets

Members of the centennial hospitality committee from Dixon, Grand Detour and Oregon met yesterday at the Hotel Nachusa and made further plans for welcoming the crowds. Charles Miller, president of the Dixon chamber of commerce, reported that Dixon's streets will be decorated for the event. Frank Einsweiler, head of Oregon's chamber of commerce, said that plans had been completed for the installation of comfort facilities. Sheriff Ward Miller announced that full co-operation in handling the traffic had been promised by the state police.

Work on the foundation for a memorial to Maj. Leonard Andrus, founder of Grand Detour and of the first permanent steel plow industry, is nearing completion at the site of the first plow works. It will be dedicated at the celebration. The services will be broadcast over seventy-seven stations of the National Broadcasting company.

Boys and girls of the Dixon high school will meet tomorrow evening for their first rehearsal for a pageant which will be presented as one of the highlights of the celebration. Sidney Brees, an instructor in the Goodman theater of the Chicago Art Institute, will be on hand to coach them in their parts.

Silver Cup, Racquet Press, And Tennis Balls, To Net Survivors

DIXON FIRMS COOPERATE IN PRIZE GIVING

Bauer - Stevens And Kline-Kearney To Meet 2nd Round

Tennis awards will be given to the winner, the runner-up and the four semi-finalists of the city tournament which begins today on the Dixon high school courts.

The winner will be awarded a beautiful silver loving cup which will be presented by the Dixon Evening Telegraph, sponsor of the tournament. The cup will be engraved "Dixon Tennis Championship, 1937" with space for the name of the winner below, and will be on display in the Trein Jewelry store window the first of next week.

The runner-up in the finals of the tournament will be donated a fine Wilson two-fold racquet press and cover by the Ace store of which H. V. Massey is proprietor. The press will be of excellent hardwood with thumb screws and the cover will be waterproof. Semi-finalists will be awarded two Golden Crown tennis balls each with the compliments of Sterling's Drug store.

3 Merchants Cooperate

The cooperating merchants are to be congratulated for their interest in promoting wholesome sport in Dixon, and are lending valuable assistance in expanding the tournament prize list beyond that of 1936 when The Telegraph awarded only one prize, a statuette trophy to the winner, Ted Wallin, who this year has vacated his throne to any one who can claim it.

Twenty-six players are entered in the tournament which will continue about five weeks. Since two complete brackets of sixteen players could not be filled out, the pairings have been arranged so no contestant will advance on a bye beyond the first round.

In the first round Howard Quick, seeded No. 1, was given a bye into the second round without competition. Clarence Bauer and Earl Stevens paired to meet in the first round have been advanced to meet in the second round each drawing a first round bye.

Bob Kline and Charles Kearney have also been advanced to meet in the second round getting byes in the first round. William Krug drew a bye into the second round.

DIZZY BOOED, BUT PITCHES 3-HIT CONTEST

Fans Alternately Ridicule And Respect Him

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

They laugh at him one day and respect him with cheers the next—depending on whether Dizzy Dean is popping off or pitching.

When he's doing the former, the folks seem to forget about his elbowing ability, and look on him as a sort of sideshow—something amusing but under no circumstances to treat seriously.

But when he gets out on that hill, and really puts his mind to fogg'ing 'em in, as he did yesterday in pinning back the ears of Carl Hubbell and the New York Giants, 8-1, there's something about the big fellow that makes the crowd tip its hat.

This Jekyll-Hyde personality makes for a lot of interesting headlines, but from the greeting Ditz received before yesterday's game, it begins to appear that the faithful, generally, and the New York fans in particular, are getting mighty tired of his outbursts.

A packed Polo grounds let out one big "boo" and followed it up with a varied assortment of jeers for most of the game. But when it was all over, and Ditz had polished off the Giants with three hits and one unearned run, the huge gathering couldn't help roaring in approval of the pitching perfection he displayed in the opener of the doubleheader.

Was Return Contest

The Hub-Diz rivalry was supposed to feature a repeat performance of last month's "battle of St. Louis," when Dean's "duster" precipitated a general free-for-all in his last

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press.)

Dizzy Dean, Cardinals, and Harry Danning, Giant — Dean pitched three-hitter for 8-1 win in doubleheader opener; Danning's pinch-homer won nightcap, 3-2.

Jim Turner and Lou Fette, Bees — Each pitched six-hitter to whip Reds, 5-2 and 5-0, in doubleheader.

Hal Trosky and Earl Averill, Indians — Each hit triple, double and single and scored three runs in 12-6 win over Red Sox.

Augie Galan, Cubs — Hit two singles, drove in two runs and scored two runs in 8-4 victory over Dodgers.

Dolph Camilli, Phillies — Hit homer and single, driving in three runs, in 8-1 win over Pirates.

meeting with Hubbell and the Giants. Apparently in the outside hope that something similar would pop up for the Polo grounds, a near-record week-day crowd of 55,577 paid their way in to see yesterday's doings. They didn't get any fist-swinging, but they were treated to a flock of baseball as the Giants followed up the opener defeat to take the nightcap, 3-2, on Harry Danning's ninth-inning pinch-homer, to hang onto the league lead.

The opening game marked the fourth straight time Hubbell has been belted out of the box. A week ago Monday the Dodgers ended his record string of 24 straight. Yesterday the Cards clouted him for 13 hits in eight innings.

The Chicago Cubs climbed into second place in their chase after the Giants by walloping Brooklyn's Dodgers, 8-4, while the Pittsburgh Pirates slipped to third by losing to the Phillies, 8-1. The Boston Bees turned loose their two "old man" rookies, Lou Fette and Jim Turner, and knocked off the Cincinnati Reds twice, 5-2 and 5-0.

Only one game escaped the weather man in the American league, with the Cleveland Indians topping the Boston Red Sox, 12-6, to climb within half a game of the deadlocked leaders, Chicago's White Sox and the Yankees.

LOUIS DUE FOR EXAMINATION BEFORE FIGHT

Even Check-Up For Auto Accident Injuries Is Planned

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Joe Louis was due for a double-barreled going-over—including an official search for automobile accident injuries—by the Illinois State Athletic Commission today at his Kenosha, Wis. training camp.

Chairman Joe Triner, George Getz and Dr. Frank Lagonio, the commission's physician, had planned to devote this afternoon to seeing for themselves how far the Brown Bomber has progressed in preparing himself for his battle with Champion James J. Braddock at Comiskey park June 22. It was to have been one of those routine "say ah" and stethoscope things.

The visit assumed more serious proportions, however, after Louis' automobile, with the Bomber himself aboard, rammed another car after yesterday's light workout. Triner was informed by telephone that the Negro challenger had escaped injury, but wanted to have Dr. Lagonio's professional judgment. The mishap occurred when Louis' car, driven by Carl Nelson, Negro policeman-bodyguard, crashed into one operated by Davis E. Hamilton of Kenosha, as the latter drove away from a curb.

The Bomber was expected to turn loose the full fury of his punching power in today's demonstration. His workouts apparently have satisfied Jack Blackburn, his canny trainer, but have not been so impressive to visiting experts.

Braddock, who whipped through an impressive six round boxing trick yesterday, planned no strenuous work for today.

Straight Trade

Boston, June 10—(AP)—Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, announced today a "straight swap" of Wes and Rick Ferrell and Mel Almada of the Hose for Buck Newso and Ben Chapman of the Washington Senators.

The Ferrells form the only brother battery in major league baseball. Wes won 20 games for the Sox last year, but has been going poorly this season. Rick is out of the game with an almost-mended broken hand.

Newson was a mainstay of the Senators last year, winning 17 games.

Almada recently has been patrolling center field for the Red Sox, filling in for Cramer, out with a lame wrist.

Chapman, speedy outfielder, was obtained by the Senators from New York Yankees last year in exchange for Jake Powell. He batted .315 last season, and is recognized as one of the most dangerous base-stealers in the league.

HERE AND THERE

New York, June 10—(AP)—Some of the experts who have visited Joe Louis' camp insist the Negro is taking James J. Braddock too lightly. . . . Anyway, Joe has used only eight sparring partners so far while at Lakewood last year he exhausted 32 prepping for Schmeling. . . . Wilbur Wood, sports editor of the New York Sun, now at the Braddock camp, warns Joe he is not going up against a decrepit old man when he faces the champion at Comiskey Park, Chicago, a week from Tuesday night.

Mussolini Wires Italian Boxers; They Win Match

New York, June 10—(AP)—Apparently Benito Mussolini is as adept at handing out fight talks as the most oratorical football coach—and much more successful.

The Italian premier wired the Italian amateur boxing team a ringing message before they went into action against a squad of American fighters at the Yankee stadium last night. Result—the Italians won, six matches to five, and took the international Golden Gloves title.

The show, which, although it provided only one knockout, carried plenty of action. The knockout came when Willie Smith, a Negro southpaw from Harlem, floored Federico Cortesani, Italian featherweight, three times in the second round and the referee stopped the bout.

Lee County Wins State-Wide Campaign of Crow Extermination, Report

Inspector Charles Duis Informed of Results

Lee county led all counties of the state in the Illinois crow killing contest which closed May 31, Conservation Inspector Charles Duis learned last evening, when he received the final figures from the state Department of Conservation headquarters at Springfield. The contest opened March 15 and continued for a period of ten weeks during which time more than $2,000 crowds were destroyed in Lee county. The official count as announced late yesterday was as follows:

First—Airport Gun club, Dixon, 1,773 pairs of feet.
Second—Payette County Crow club, Vandavia, 1,242 feet.
Third—Gerald George, Kankakee, 1,001 feet.
Fourth—Macon chapter, Macon Sportsmen's club, 616 feet.
Fifth—Warren county Sportsmen's club, Monmouth, 513 feet.

The Airport Gun club also won second place for high count in the semi-monthly contest when 1,144 pairs of crows' feet were turned in at the department offices at Springfield. The three crow hunters who entered the contest under the name of the Airport Gun club of Dixon were: Inspector Charles Duis, William Fisher and J. R. Hoyle.

Success Due Duis
The success of winning the first honor in the state is due entirely to the efforts of Inspector Charles Duis of this city, who organized several townships throughout the county in the drive to exterminate crows, the enemy of all game birds as well as being the cause of heavy damage to farmers. Several townships did not enter the contest and were content to suffer damage from the crows.

Dixon township led the county in the number of pairs of crows feet forwarded to Springfield. Sublette township, where the drive was headed by Ralph Lauer, was second. Wyoming, China, Nachusa, Ashton, Amboy, Sublette and Dixon townships participated in the contest. While the total number of pairs of crows' feet sent to the department numbered but 1,773, more than 2,500 birds were destroyed, according to Inspector Duis.

In some instances feet which had been stored awaiting shipment were consumed by rodents and in other cases the hunters to forward the feet before the closing date of the contest.

Closing the contest May 31, will not retard the drive against crows in Lee county, Inspector Duis said today. The campaign will continue indefinitely with a view of ridding the county of crows insofar as is possible, he said.

Will Get Game Birds
By winning the state contest, Lee county will receive a total of 105 live birds, either quail or pheasants which will be in addition to the regular consignment to be sent to the county for propagation purposes. The leaders in the contest will meet at a date to be decided upon soon to determine the locations in which the live birds will be released.

Last year about 300 pheasants and quail were consigned to Lee county from state game farms for restocking purposes and were released throughout the county at locations suitable for propagation. With the additional 105 birds to be received by virtue of winning the state contest, close to 500 birds are expected to be sent to Lee county.

PLANS OUTLINED FOR BIGGEST LEE CO. EXPOSITION

Three-Day Fair to be Held At Dixon Airport Aug. 27-29

An old-time county fair with all departments modernized by the latest developments in agriculture and supplemented by snappy amusement and an interesting educational features will be sponsored this year by the Lee County Fair & Horse Show Association.

Officers and directors, meeting last night at the home of Dr. Z. W. Moss, association president, decided to hold the fair Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 27, 28 and 29.

To accommodate the larger number of exhibits, the added entertainment features and clean concessions which are to be permitted the Lee county fair will be held this year at the municipal airport.

Premium List Boosted
As an indication of the bigger and better fair to be given this fall the sponsors announced that the premium total would be increased from $3,300, the amount awarded last fall, to $4,500, and that in the several departments the classes to be entered are to be enlarged.

The horse show will be an interesting feature as usual, but the big county exposition this year will be more in the nature of an agricultural and educational fair in which the people, farmers and urbanites alike, living in this section of Illinois will be privileged to exhibit the things which have made northern Illinois famous.

It became apparent at last year's horse show and fair, held on the high school grounds at Dixon, that the association's show would have to branch out this year. In 1936 accommodations were lacking for many of the farm exhibits, the grounds were not large enough to permit of some entertainment features which the fair management has under consideration, and concessions could not be placed.

Classes Are Increased
This year there will be ample ground available for the big fair and the sponsors are promising to give Lee county one of the best fall expositions in its history. The departments will include beef and dairy cattle, heavy draft horses, poultry and rabbits, junior exhibits, sheep, agricultural products, horticulture and domestic arts. In most of these the classes are increased. In the dairy cattle department, for instance, a class of milking Shorthorns has been added, giving five breeds this year instead of the four exhibited last year.

The classes are so broadened that men and women of northern Illinois will have an opportunity to exhibit their products whether they be livestock, poultry, grain, fruits, vegetables or products of the home-maker, and the larger premiums to be given will act to induce a larger number of entries.

Superintendents Named
Superintendents of the various departments have been named and are starting working on their preliminary lists. It is expected the printed premium list for the entire fair will be available in a short time. A special committee is at work on a program of entertainment which promises to contain some interesting surprises, and it plans to schedule the events so that there will be no embarrassing delays in staging the various numbers.

Increased patronage and exhibitors each succeeding year since the modest show was first put on by a number of enthusiastic horsemen of this area has warranted the big fair promised this year. The association is made up of men of vision and they have realized that the people of this area want a real county fair. This year they are going to give the people that very thing.

Manero Defending 1936 Baltusrol Championship
Birmingham, Mich., June 10.—(AP)—America's crack golfing brigade went over the top today at Oakland Hills, ready for a three-day battle with par in which but one of the 167 combatants had a chance to reach the objective—the 41st national open championship.

Heavy rains which soaked the battlefield threatened to turn the scrap into a naval engagement unless the weatherman followed the United States Golf association's lead in giving the boys a "break."

U. S. G. A. officials took one look at the tall, tough grass in "man's land" bordering the fairway and greens, then sent out an SOS for reapers to take in at least a part of the "hay" before the firing started.

The long hitters, prone to "spray" a tee shot now and then, favored the idea, while the more accurate, shorter-hitting contingent saw the move as a definite threat to their chances.

Defending champion Tony Manero, who blasted his way to the top with a record-shattering 282 at Baltusrol last year, voiced the sentiment of the latter group when he said: "Cutting the rough will help my game but it will hurt my chances to win."

Snead Chosen to Win
Slammin' Sam Snead, the West Virginia hill country youth, was in an unusual spot as the 142 professionals and 25 amateurs launched the 72-hole medal test. Snead, making his first open start, was the bookmakers' choice to win at 8 to 1, the first time a freshman ever has had this distinction in the betting.

Right on Snead's heels, at 10 to 1, were Tommy Armour, the "Silver Scot," Lighthorse Harry Cooper of Chicago, who cracked all open records with 284 at Baltusrol last year, then only to lose to Manero's 282; Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa.

Eighteen holes were scheduled today, and the same task faced the field for tomorrow. At the end of the second round the field will be cut to the low-scoring 60, and all ties for the 60th spot, and that group will go into the 36-hole stretch drive Saturday.

CRACK GOLFING BRIGADE SWARMS OAKLAND HILLS

Walgreen

Dixon-Chicago Drug Magnate Subject of Editorial

The Chicago Herald and Examiner of Wednesday published the following editorial concerning Charles R. Walgreen, Dixon and Chicago drug chain magnate:

An Anchor to Windward
Not long ago Charles R. Walgreen created something of a sensation by withdrawing a niece from the University of Chicago.

His action was prompted, he explained, by the fact that his ward, together with other students, had been subjected to communistic influences at the big Midway school.

Having made his protest against such teaching, he might have let the matter rest.

But he has followed up his protest by something more substantial and constructive. He did not quarrel with the institution, but sought to correct a condition. Realizing that university students, being of an impressionable age, are often swept off their feet by utopianism, he has created a principles and traditions of American democracy.

To Mr. Walgreen's princely gift of $550,000 has been added $275,000 from the Rosenwald family fund, thus providing the university with sufficient capital for extensive study and research in the field of American fundamentals.

As the donor points out, no fault can be found with the teaching of governmental systems other than American. That, he admits, is the American's business.

But such instruction, he submits, may be subversive unless the students are first thoroughly grounded in the principles of the American system.

Furnished with such a sheet anchor as his foundation will provide, students may be exposed with less danger to the academic teaching of systems foreign to our own.

Mr. Walgreen, in establishing a chair of Americanism, shows a deep insight into human nature. To understand American democracy and all it implies is to value and appreciate it.

Because of the economic unrest of the last few years, the more emotional students have been the more easily influenced by the alluring and sensational than is the case in normal times. They have been disposed to exchange true values for false.

But once the student has become convinced that the American way is the best way; that it holds out greater freedom, greater opportunity and more happiness than any other way, nothing can persuade that student to exchange true gold for the brummelegens of fools' gold.

This is the principle Mr. Walgreen is acting on. He has no illusions as to the perfection of the American system of government. But with all its shortcomings, he is convinced that it is infinitely superior to any other system as yet devised.

And the greater our understanding of American principles, the easier it will be to correct their imperfections and to resist the temptation to merely try new experiments.

Lash had been favored to win both the mile and two mile runs and his points figured to place Indiana at or near the top of the list.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Genesis 44:18-34
By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D.
The story of Joseph reaches its highest point in the interview of Judah, the eldest son of Jacob, with his brother, Joseph, who was "now, my lord," and the most powerful man in Egypt, though unknown to Judah as the brother who years before had been sold into Egypt. Judah, as a matter of fact, had a great deal to do with Joseph's being in Egypt. When Joseph's brethren had thrown him into the pit and intended to abandon him there, Judah had seen the caravan coming, and proposed, rather, that they should sell Joseph to this caravan going into Egypt.

It seemed like a meritorious proposal in comparison to the abandoning of Joseph to a cruel fate in the pit; and some readers have supposed that Judah's motive was merciful, though he spoke of profit, so that he might influence his brothers.

At any rate, Judah had played a strange part in fate, and fate was playing him a strange part now; for Joseph, who was in Egypt by his act, was now the man of power before whom Judah was cringing with fear and subservience.

Assuming that Judah was not wholly bad, and may have developed in character during the years, one sees him in a favorable light in the episode, apart from his fear and cringing.

If he had sold Joseph into Egypt, he was now not willing to leave Benjamin there. He makes a plea concerning his father's old age, and the tragedy it will be if he goes back to his father, bereft of one son, to tell him that Benjamin, the other son of his old age, has been left in Egypt.

Judah's plea rises to its best as he proposes that he himself should stay as a bondsman, and that Benjamin should go back with his brethren.

One should perhaps speak of the backgrounds of the story, which are probably well enough known to Bible readers. The brothers had gone down on repeated visits to Egypt to find food that they might take back to famine-stricken Canaan.

Joseph had given instruction that as they were returning home with their sacks full, a silver cup should be put in Benjamin's sack. Then he had sent after his brethren, and when the cup was found there, Benjamin had been accused of stealing it.

It was all, of course, a clever ruse on Joseph's part to hold his brothers, and as an instance in the story, it leads up to that emotional crisis of his revelation of himself as the brother whom they had sold into slavery, now ready to deal with them not in revenge, but with magnanimity.

One need hardly stress the fine qualities and teachings that emerge in this story with such extremes of light and shadow. When one realizes the spirit of revenge that is still abroad in the world, one has reason to sense the vision and the moral quality of the writer who set forgiveness and magnanimity upon the highest pinnacle in this ancient story.

If men generally could catch even a small part of that moral and spiritual vision, how different this world would be! Wrongs could be righted and sins could be rebuked with a far greater keenness and overwhelming power than can ever be manifested in doing evil for evil.

Ruling Out Cancer Causes

In seeking the cause of a disease, it is sometimes as important to exonerate suspected agents as to discover the culpable ones. This becomes particularly desirable when suspicion falls upon valuable food items or useful environmental agents. In the case of cancer, almost everything with which man comes in contact has at one time or another been suspected as contributing to its development.

For example, studies have been made on the relationship of alu-use of milk have been "accused" as possible causes of cancer. Needless to say, all of the above cited items have been shown to have no bearing whatsoever on the origin of cancer. When we refer to the history of other diseases, certain vegetables, and lately the the causes of which were unknown for a long time, we find similar experiences.

Before the cause of tuberculosis was established and the tubercle bacillus identified, many believed tuberculosis was due to come hereditary taint, or that the north wind, a sudden deep grief, vinegar or worms caused it.

Sometimes suspicion is thrown upon an entirely "irrational agent" by an erroneous and faulty statistical study. Years ago one ingenious amateur statistician observed that there was a correlation between the softness of the asphalt and the infant mortality rate. He observed that when the asphalt was soft the infant mortality rate was high. He jumped to the conclusion that soft asphalt had some direct bearing on infant mortality. Of course this correlation was only accidental. The fact is that high temperatures soften asphalt.

Previous to sterilization and before the refrigeration of foods was common, cholera infantum (the acute diarrheal diseases of children) was widespread, largely due to the spoilage and contamination of the foods they were fed during hot weather. This was the "correlation" between the softness of the asphalt and the rise in infant mortality.

The cause of cancer remains unknown, but it is most certain that it is not due to any food item in our dietary. On that score at least we can be certain.

THRILLS AT HORSE SHOW

Thrilling sights like this of Captain Romeo E. Mura, 124th Field Artillery, Illinois National Guard, taking a hurdle will be among the many thrills in store for those attending Chicago's Charter Jubilee Horse Show. Held at Soldier Field, June 9 to 13, as part of Chicago's celebration of its hundredth anniversary as a city, it will be the greatest equestrian exhibition that the Middle West has ever seen.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CORAL CRANDALL, heroine and senior at Elton College.
DAVID ARMSTRONG, Elton chemistry professor and Coral's husband.
DONNA ALLEN, Coral's sorority roommate.
HOYT MARQUIS, Coral's one-time fiance.

Yesterday, Coral and David are secretly married. As Coral bids David goodnight she realizes she ought to tell him about Hoyt before it is too late.

CHAPTER II

AS Coral walked across the campus from the Chemistry building to her sorority house, her mind was full of thoughts of David. She had been married two weeks. Sometimes it seemed a long time; at others, a matter of days. "I love him more every day," she thought to herself.

How splendid he had been when she told him about the boy from Wheatland, her home town . . . Hoyt Marquis, whom her parents had always assumed she would marry, to whom most of the students at Elton thought she was engaged. She had related the whole story to David, explaining why she had fallen in with the plans of both the Marquis family and her own, despite the fact that she did not love Hoyt. She had told him of the money her father owed Hoyt Marquis, Sr., who was Wheatland's richest banker. She had been afraid that David would be resentful, hurt that she had not confided in him before, or jealous of this other man. He had been perfect, though, thoroughly understanding, even laughing a little at her concern.

"Darling," he had chuckled at the end of their talk, "my only feeling about Hoyt Marquis is that he is more to be pitied than censured." After all, his loss is my gain . . . if you get what I mean." And Coral had gotten it, of course, and had been well kissed in the bargain. Her heart beat faster at the recollection. How happy . . . how incredibly fortunate and lucky . . . she was!

SHE turned up the walk leading to the dormitory and waved merrily to a pair of girls who were sitting precariously on the window sill of their room enjoying the spring sunshine. She envied them a little, for they were friends as she and Marge had been. Try as she might, it was impossible to establish the same happy, carefree relationship with Donna Allen, who thought everything at Elton a bore, who antagonized everyone who attempted to draw her into the inner circle of the sorority.

She let herself into the sorority house and stopped at the library table in the broad hall. She thumbed through the letters lying on it. Yes, there was one for her with a Wheatland postmark. The typewritten address meant that it was from her father. She opened it eagerly, but as she read her expectant look compressed into a little frown. They were expecting her home for spring vacation in a week. Many of the other young people would be home and there would be a number of parties. Hoyt had called and asked when she was arriving, and had seemed very eager to see her.

There was the rub. Hoyt, she supposed it was rewardly not to have written him before, but if she told him the truth, that she was married to David, then he'd be sure to tell her parents. If she told him that she was interested in someone else and wanted to make sure there was no definite understanding between them, he would promptly raise the roof, complain to her parents and his, and, perhaps, even insist that his father call in Mr. Crandall's loan.

She shrugged. There was no help for it. Hoyt would have to be told when everyone else was, and not before. But it was annoying to have to consider him and what he would do. She had never loved him, he did not really love her, but because it was to their parents' advantage they had been thrown together for so long that the companionship had become habitual.

HER brows still knitted in frowning concentration, Coral climbed the stairs to the second floor and opened the door of her room. Donna was sitting on the window seat, clad in over-elaborate green lounging pajamas, a box of chocolates at her elbow, a novel with a garishly printed dust jacket in her hand. As Coral entered, she looked up from her book. "Hi, there. It's late. I suppose you've been in the lab, noisily doing the work for tomorrow."

Coral nodded absently. She had not noticed the quizzical, slightly mocking tone of Donna's voice, or the curious, watchful look on her face. "What have you been doing?" she asked.

"Nothing. That is nothing constructive. I've been waiting here for the last two hours for you to come and translate 80 lines of Greek for me."

"I'll help you with it, of course. But I can't simply translate it for you and let you hand it in. I had the course last year and Dr. Shire would recognize it in a minute." Coral was looking over the volumes in the case. "Where's the book?"

Donna sat up on the edge of the window seat, her eyes snapping. "Coral, for heaven's sake don't be so . . . so prissy. You know quite well that I can't begin to translate that into any kind of sense. You've done it all once, it'll be no work for you. Besides, old 'Owl-Eyes' won't know the difference."

Coral laughed in spite of herself. "You shouldn't make fun of Professor Shire, Donna. And he's much canner than you think. He'd recognize my translation in a minute. Don't forget I was in his classes for three years, and he even knows how I make mistakes. It's all right for me to help you get started on your translation. But I couldn't do the whole thing!

for you. That's cheating. It wouldn't be right."

DONNA sprang to her feet. "Coral, you make me sick. All your talk about what's right and what isn't. You're a fine one to talk. I know a lot more about you than you think I do. You can't pull your sweet, innocent act with me any more."

"Donna, what are you talking about?" Coral paled a little. "You must be crazy!"

"Crazy, am I?" Donna fairly screamed. "I'm not so crazy as to elope with a cheap chemistry professor who makes nothing a year, MRS. DAVID ARMSTRONG!"

For a few moments there was a dead silence in the room. At last Coral spoke. "What do you mean?" Her voice was strained, held in control by terrific exertion of her will.

"You know what I mean," Donna said sulkily, frightened by Coral's voice, and her drawn, white face. "I couldn't find a handkerchief when I came in and I opened your drawer to borrow one of yours. The license was under the pile of handkerchiefs. Anyone might have found it."

"Donna, you're lying," said Coral. "That marriage license was locked in the drawer of my desk. The key was under the handkerchiefs."

"What difference does it make, as long as I found it?" Donna inquired insolently. "I'll be the campus sensation with this juicy little tid-bit of gossip to recount. You'll be expelled and your handsome David will lose his job."

Coral was aghast. "Donna, you're not going to tell anyone? You mustn't!"

Donna sat down on the window seat again. "Why not?"

"You know perfectly well why not. It must be kept a secret until June."

DONNA selected a chocolate from the box and munched it pensively. "I might be persuaded to keep your pretty little secret if you made it worth my while. If you translated my Greek, for instance, and seemed willing to do a few other odd jobs for me."

Without a word, Coral rummaged through the bookcase until she found the Greek textbook, and sat down at the desk, paper and pencil beside her. "There seems to be nothing else for me to do. I ought to have this finished before dinner." She worked silently for a while, then without looking up, said, "I hope you realize that this is a peculiarly low form of blackmail, Donna."

Donna grinned. "Call it blackmail if it makes you feel any better, sweetheart. It's darned convenient for me. And by the way, I have a date with Lefty Welsh tonight and I don't intend to be in until long after I'm supposed to be. I'll expect you to go downstairs and open the door for me between half-past 3 and 4 o'clock."

An involuntary spasm of distaste crossed Coral's face, and it did not escape Donna. "At any rate, I'll come home single," she mocked. "You can do my physics problem while you're waiting to let me in." She chuckled again and reopened her novel, coldly ignoring the brimming tears in Coral's eyes.

LETTER FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. E. E. Shaw, Publisher of The Telegraph, Tells of Pre-Coronation Visit in England

May 21, 1937
Here we are at the Hague. Arrived this morning for a 7 o'clock breakfast. Miss Marquis of New York is conducting our party for the E. S. U. from now on, and in the party are some St. Paul people. One, a Mrs. Val J. Rothchild, said she and her sister, Mrs. Haviland, formerly of Sterling, knew Sue's grandmother. She also knew Sue's mother and aunt, Mrs. Harpman. She was married in Sterling. Her home is the Commodore hotel, St. Paul. Her sister lives at The King George in San Francisco. Mrs. Rothchild is a great friend of Sue's Aunt Li who is now living in New York. Remember I met her in Paris the last time I was here.

Left London the evening of the 20th, went by rail to Harwich where we took the boat across the channel for the Hook of Holland. We went immediately to bed for fear of being seasick, and it was rough but it didn't worry us. Had to get up early and off the boat. We were put through the customs and they opened some bags but not ours. A large comfortable bus met us and we found it a different country from England. Miles of greenhouses are to be seen. Raising grapes and tomatoes for the London market seems to be the main industry. Many cattle were grazing in the abundant fields. All the houses are well built and every one is scrupulously clean and every window is curtained with a spotless white curtain. We rode for many miles along the North Sea shore before we reached The Hague, a city of 450,000, and a most beautiful, prosperous looking one. The city homes are not unlike those in the States. A stranger is at once impressed with the wide streets, and the beautiful trees. There are many, many canals. On either side is a wide paved street, also a row of trees on each side of the canal. Sometimes the branches almost form an archway and the reflection in green upon the silver stream of water is lovely. Of course the canal necessitates many bridges. These are all built street level forming an arch over the water which is another added attraction. Expected to see wind mills every where today in our country drive today. Maybe tomorrow we will be in that section. Did see a beautiful light house with a half million candle power. In the older part of The Hague and in some of the villages we motored through we observed mirrors fastened to the windows of the houses, that are built in rows, under one roof, as it were. These are for the busybody who wants to keep track of his neighbor. You would think they would be ashamed to have them, but no, indeed, it's the thing to do it seems.

The milk dispenser has a most attractive outfit. A small wagon, man drawn, with two cans of shining brass the size of the milk cans such as our farmers use. Men, old and young, women the same, and children, all ride bicycles. It is hard to keep out of their way. Most of the motor cars are American make, of small horse power.

From the way people gather around our crowd I fancy not many tourists come this way. Men would stop work to look at us and children stop their play to take a good look.

Our guide pointed out a sanatorium in which he said each room was a different color. A place for nervous women and they are placed in the room most suited to their temperament. They have a blue room in which everything in the room is blue even to the dishes for the tray and the nurse's uniform is of the same color. There are purple rooms, green ones, etc. Guess they would have to have a black one to match up some nerves.

We paid a visit to the "House in the Woods," one of three palaces belonging to the queen. It is a very beautiful place and here the first peace conference was held in 1899. One gorgeous room is hung in Chinese rice paper which is a marvel of beauty. A Japanese room is wonderful, too. The walls are hung with material made of silk, leather and feathers. Good sized birds with their real feathers appear to be woven into the silk. It is difficult to depict the grandeur of this little gem of a palace. The white dining room is famous. I will show you a picture of it later.

In one room the great chandelier was most unusual. The candle or light parts were of small cups and saucers turned down and cups up holding the candle. Of course they are rare and beautiful. In the various rooms were rare paintings by the old masters. Some covering the wall from floor to ceiling and the width in proportion. There were several by Rubens and in most of them his two wives, one a brunette, the other a blonde, served as model. The ballroom was wonderful. Van Dyke was the artist who decorated the ceiling. On a door painted 250 years ago was a picture of Minerva and Hercules through which the Peace Conference entered. It is very beautiful and the colors seem just as clear as if painted yesterday. The floor is of fine oak, spider web in design. In the ballroom is a large table of Russian red marble (Napoleon's tomb in Paris is made of this). You look into the table and get a most perfect reflection of the beautiful ceiling. Every detail is brought out. I could write hours and tell of the marvelous furniture and hangings, etc.

We spent some time in the art gallery, and our guide pointed out the most prized paintings. One by Paulus Potter (of cows) painted when he was about 22, was world famous, he said. You could see the cow's eyelashes, and the flies on the cow's back made you want to shoot them off. This was painted in 1647. How remarkable that these beautiful things endure through the ages.

Rembrandt, the great artist, poor, born in a windmill home, has several pieces that have been preserved. One "Lesson of Anatomy," a man reclining on a table with eight onlookers. I presume doctors.

Vermeer had a large view of the City of Delft. Murillo and John Steen were other masters whose paintings are among the finest in the world.

We went from the Art Gallery to the House of Parliament where the second Peace Conference of 1907 took place, also visited the new Peace Palace where the third conference was held. Andrew Carnegie gave one and a half million to build the building of the International Court of Justice. All nations gave generously to this building that cost ten million and still peace on earth has not yet come.

We motored to the harbors. One was filled with picturesque fishing boats. The scene reminded me of Tarpon Springs in Florida. Some of the boats were going out to be gone five or six weeks. Their wives were on the docks to say farewell. A fisherman's wife wears a white cap on the back of her head as a means of distinction. The fishermen go to England (it is 120 miles across the sea to England) to fish for herring. They return from their adventures when they have a shipload of fish which is sold at auction.

We saw the church in which Julian was married. Also where the civil marriage took place. She and her husband and the queen mother are adored by their subjects.

Sounds as if everyone in this beautiful hotel had gone to bed. Can't see a soul or hear a sound. Blanch left some time since and I am tired, too, after a full, long day.

The Hague and Delft.

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

NEW LINK IN SPINE OF AMERICA

THE great "spinal column" of mountains that runs down the western "back" of North and South America is being revealed gradually to the view of Americans, by means of broad highways that wind over it. Eventually, from the Arctic Circle to Buenos Aires, for 15,000 miles, such a Pan-American Highway will link the two Americas in what is expected to be the most fascinating scenic panorama in the world.

One link, that between Laredo, Tex., and Mexico City, was opened to travel in 1936, after 11 years of construction. It runs for 763 miles across the flat plains south of Laredo, then upward into the Sierra Madre mountains, across jungle land, ancient villages and more heights until it reaches the capital of Mexico.

It cost Mexico $11,000,000. Now this money is beginning to come back to tourist travel from the United States. Mexico, in 1936, issued a series of regular and air-mail stamps commemorating the opening of this road. One of the regular postage is shown here.
